This year we have added two stations, the Bible and the missionary stations. This gave us five stations, therefore we have additionally made the snack time a station. In this way, you can easily rotate the three age groups through the six stations. This, however, creates a small problem in that some students will not have their snack until almost the end of the day. We recommend that you have the older students wait the longest for their snack.

If you would rather serve all your students snack together in the middle of the day, there are other options. You could divide your group into 5 classes, and rotate through the five stations that are running simultaneously. This could be done by dividing the two age groups that are the largest in half. Another option is to add another station for learning the memory verse, or for learning the actions to the songs, or both. In this way, you would have six stations to rotate, apart from the snacks. Alternatively, you could eliminate some stations, to make your VBS shorter in length.
